Health Promotion: Transformative action in a changing Europe | June 15-16, 2021 | Girona, Spain

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

The Scientific Committee of the Conference invites delegates to submit proposals for different types of scientific presentations: oral presentations, symposia, workshops, or poster presentation dealing with health promotion research, practice, or policies.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR ABSTRACTS

The conference will cover a broad spectrum of themes, settings and practices in the field of health promotion. Abstracts are welcome for presentations dealing with health promotion theories or models, research, training and capacity building, the implementation of health promotion actions, user involvement in practice and research, as well as with the evaluation of interventions in a variety of settings including local communities, schools, workplaces, health services, and other.

Three formats are offered for submission: oral presentation, electronic poster, and symposium or workshop.

An oral presentation is a short talk delivered by one presenter to present his/her work succinctly, preferably with the help of visual aids (powerpoint). The presenting author will have 10 minutes to present and 5 minutes for questions from the audience. All presenting authors must adhere to this time limit. Oral presentations will be grouped in thematic sessions by the scientific committee.

An electronic poster offers delegates the opportunity to present their work in a visually attractive format summarizing their project. Posters will be on display during the duration of the conference, but the programme will also foresee time slots when presenters will have the opportunity to comment their work and interact with attendees.

A workshop or symposium provides an opportunity for delegates partake interactively and to debate innovative ideas, knowledge and challenging questions. A symposium is a session that focuses on a particular issue in a structured way, with several related presentations. A workshop is more hands-on and focusing on building skills. Workshops and symposia involve a session coordinator, and possibly co-organisers. The duration will be 90 minutes, half of which should be dedicated to interaction with the participants. The session coordinator must submit an outline of the entire workshop or symposium, stating the objectives of the workshop, learning goals and type of activities (e.g. presentations with audience interaction, round table with panel discussants, pro/con session).

ABSTRACT SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

All abstracts must be submitted through the conference website. Abstracts should be submitted through the Abstract portal.

The first author of an abstract will be considered to be the presenter or chair of the session/ debate/ workshop at the conference. The presenter or workshop chair must participate at the conference.

Presenters who have not registered before March 31, 2021 will have their abstracts removed from the programme.

There is a maximum of two submissions as presenting author.

Abstracts should be in English and should not exceed more than 350 words exclusive of the title, authors and affiliations (same for all formats). Please note that tables or figures are not accepted in the abstracts. The title should not have abbreviations. In the text of the abstract, any abbreviations should be spelled out and explained the first time they are used. It is best to write the text of the abstract and then copy and paste it from your completed word file in the Abstract Content field in the Abstract Portal. Neither author name or affiliation should be included in this field, to allow for an anonymous review.

Abstracts must clearly indicate the thematic scope and the preferred presentation format (oral presentation, poster or symposium/workshop). The scientific committee reserves the right to decide on the format as well as the right to decline submitted abstracts if they do not fulfil scientific criteria.

All accepted abstracts will be compiled in an abstract book with a designated ISBN/ISSN number. This will be published electronically on the conference webpage. If you do not wish to have your abstract published in the abstract book, please notify the organiser at: iuhpeabstracts@actoserveis.com
